Student Code of Conduct

The Higher Education Institutions Student Discipline Regulation serves as the fundamental student code of conduct for internal dealings and practices within our university. The general purpose of this regulation is to establish the rules and procedures for disciplinary penalties and investigations to be imposed on higher education institution students. Operating as a comprehensive framework encompassing all students within higher education institutions, this regulation is of primary importance to Ibn Haldun University students, and it should be primarily studied to understand the fundamental behavior evaluation and discipline processes.

The regulation outlines the guidelines and principles for maintaining a proper and respectful learning environment, ensuring that students uphold ethical and responsible behavior. It provides a framework for addressing breaches of conduct and defines the procedures and consequences for disciplinary actions. As a core reference document, it plays a significant role in shaping the conduct and interactions of our university’s student body.

Academic Freedom and Principles

The Higher Education Institutions Scientific Research and Publication Ethics Directive, along with our university’s core values of Intellectual Independence, Traditional Innovation, Open Civilization, Global Competition, and Comparative Education, forms the basis for academic processes, activities, and practices within the university. This directive is prepared with the aim of defining the ethical rules to be adhered to in scientific research, work, publications, and activities, as well as the duties, powers, and responsibilities of the scientific research and publication ethics committees that higher education institutions will establish within their own structures. It also outlines the procedures and principles for their operations.

In terms of scope, this directive covers various ethical issues related to scientific research, studies, and activities conducted by the university, research ethics topics related to supported or carried out research and development projects, research ethics topics related to theses and scientific publications during postgraduate education, ethical issues related to publications sent or published in various forms of press, visual, and audio media at national and international levels, and potential ethical violations that may arise in research conducted by members of higher education institutions.

For Ibn Haldun University members, this directive is of paramount importance as a fundamental document that should be primarily studied in the context of academic principles and freedoms.

They may also serve in the central organs of political parties and in research and advisory units affiliated with them, with the condition that faculty members in this situation cannot hold positions such as members of the Higher Education Board and Higher Education Inspection Board, rectors, deans, directors of institutes and faculties, and heads of departments, nor can they be elected as their deputies. Students of higher education institutions may become members of political parties. However, faculty members and students who are members of political parties cannot

Emergency Situations

Information on what to do in case of possible emergencies is published on our website.

Protection of Personal Data

The Law No. 6698 on the Protection of Personal Data, which was approved on March 24, 2016 and published in the Official Newspaper No. 29677 on April 7, 2016, has come into effect. Our university has taken measures and implemented necessary procedures in accordance with the provisions of this law. In this context, the information text and explicit consent form prepared are published on our website.

Security

Lost and Found Items
Found items are stored in the Rectorate’s CCTV. A record is kept of where and when the item was found, as well as the person who found it, and it is signed and documented. When the owner of the item comes forward, it is also documented and delivered.

Visitor Entry/Exit Procedures
When guests arrive at the campus, they are initially asked whom they are visiting or which department they are visiting. If it is Administrative or Academic Personnel, confirmation is obtained, and guests are requested to present their identification. Subsequently, visitors are provided with a visitor card and given directions.

IHU Culture

Ibn Haldun University places great importance on collective wisdom and consultation mechanisms in the continuous development of administrative and academic processes in response to current issues and needs. In this context, subject-based/general consultation workshops and camps are organized, where academics and/or administrative staff come together to exchange ideas, ensuring that feedback is regularly collected and necessary actions are taken based on this feedback, which is an important aspect of the IHU institutional culture. Additionally, to enhance a sense of belonging among staff and increase employee loyalty, regular summer/winter camps and traditional iftaar (fast-breaking) events are also organized.

Green Campus

The Green Campus initiative is a comprehensive project encompassing various aspects such as environmental conservation, ecology, planet preservation, resource sustainability, and intergenerational access to environmental resources. It addresses topics of justice, children’s right to education, and more.

The Green Campus movement, adopted and promoted within the boundaries of Ibn Haldun University’s campus, emphasizes the increasing importance of preserving nature and supporting sustainable resources in today’s world. Within the mission of the Green Campus, the university administration, staff, and students aim to raise awareness and create consciousness about environmental issues.

One of the fundamental objectives of this project is to enhance the existing awareness within the university, a prominent educational institution, and naturally extend this awareness beyond the university to create a wide circle of consciousness that can also have a positive impact outside. In line with this, Ibn Haldun University is committed to generating and implementing on-campus projects and activities related to topics such as zero waste, sustainable environmental management, and conservation of finite resources.

Campus Animals

Our university campus operates an animal care program that shelters cats and dogs. This program aims to create a positive atmosphere among students and staff by providing care and affection to animals within the campus environment. All necessary procedures regarding the animals on campus are managed by the “IHU Animal Lovers” community, which consists of university students.

Dedicated shelters have been established in specific areas of the university campus for cats and dogs. These areas are designed to ensure the comfort and safety of the animals, featuring adequate space, clean bedding, and temperature-controlled environments. The health of the animals on the university campus is regularly monitored. Veterinarians follow vaccination schedules and provide necessary medical care. Treatment and pest control measures are carried out as needed.

Ibn Haldun University supports sterilization programs to prevent uncontrolled breeding of animals and promote responsible adoption processes. The adoption procedures are meticulously managed to ensure that animals find suitable homes.

Academic Misconduct

Copying
In accordance with Article 54 of Law No. 2547 on Higher Education, attempting to copy during exams results in a reprimand penalty, while copying or facilitating copying during exams leads to a suspension for one semester from the university. Committing copy-related offenses such as using threats to copy, preventing the removal of students caught copying from the exam hall, attempting to have someone else take the exam in one’s place, or taking an exam on behalf of someone else results in a suspension for two semesters from the university.

Plagiarism
In accordance with Article 54 of Law No. 2547 on Higher Education, plagiarism in seminars, theses, and publications, except for non-academic contributions such as survey applications or data collection, which do not involve academic evaluation, by partially or completely having others write them without personal effort and academic accumulation, leads to a suspension for one semester from the university.

Non-Compliance with Current Policies, Procedures, and Rules
In accordance with Article 54 of Law No. 2547 on Higher Education, all disciplinary investigation processes are carried out.

Plagiarism, Copying, and Disciplinary Offenses in Preparatory Programs
Academic honesty and originality are fundamental in all assignments and work of students. Deliberate and unauthorized alterations to academic work, and the use of another person’s ideas, words, or expressions without proper citation, except for contributions that do not involve academic assessment, are strictly prohibited and constitute an academic offense. In the case of copying in assignments or exams, attempting to copy, or violating established disciplinary rules, necessary sanctions will be applied by the commission designated by Ibn Haldun University School of Languages, in line with the Higher Education Board.
Discipline Regulations and Ibn Haldun University School of Languages Implementation Principles.

Reporting Known or Suspected Violations of the Code of Honor

The Student Discipline Regulation of Higher Education Institutions is utilized as the fundamental student code of conduct governing intra-university interactions, activities, and practices within our institution. Both the Discipline Regulation and the Honor Code outline obligations and responsibilities for members of the higher education community regarding the reporting of known and suspected violations. In this context, the Higher Education Institutions Student Discipline Regulation, Article 5, includes among the offenses warranting a reprimand penalty: ‘a) providing incomplete or inaccurate information as requested by university authorities, b) disrupting activities such as classes, seminars, workshops, scientific meetings, and conferences, d) attempting to copy during exams,’ while Article 7 lists actions warranting a suspension for one semester from the university: ‘e) Copying or facilitating copying during exams, f) Committing plagiarism in seminars, theses, and publications.’ Actions warranting a suspension for two semesters from the university include: ‘d) Threateningly attempting to copy during exams, preventing the removal of students caught copying from the exam hall, attempting to have someone else take the exam in one’s place, or taking an exam on behalf of someone else, g) Illicitly gaining an unfair advantage for oneself or another by accessing the university’s information systems.’ Furthermore, the same regulation’s Article 10 stipulates that individuals engaged in acts qualitatively and quantitatively similar to those warranting a suspension or expulsion penalty, other than for disciplinary offenses warranting suspension or expulsion from the higher education institution, shall also be subject to the same type of disciplinary penalties. Thus, a comprehensive framework has been established to encompass not only explicitly stated violations and sanctions but also to address violations and sanctions not explicitly stated in the regulation, such as failure to report breaches of honor codes and academic misconduct.

General Information for Preparatory Program

What is the Modular System?

The main objective of İbn Haldun University School of Languages’ English Preparatory Program is to prepare students for academic studies using a communicative approach and to encourage them to become effective, motivated, and self-directed learners.

The English Preparatory Program is designed with a modular system, taking into consideration the profiles of our students and the academic requirements of our university. The modular system is preferred due to its flexibility and rapid response to changes.

A module is a structured instructional experience with a clear beginning and end, showing internal coherence. The modular approach allows students to progress at their own pace and receive instant feedback on their achievements. The Modular System ensures that students achieve the targeted language skills by the end of the modules they continue, contributing to the efficiency of language education. According to this system, there are 5 modules in an academic year. Each module lasts for 8 weeks.

Levels in Our English Preparatory Program

- Elementary (A)
- Pre-Intermediate (B)
- Intermediate (C)
- Upper-Intermediate (D)
- Pre-Faculty (E)

For a student to be considered to have successfully completed any module they continue, the attendance limit must not be exceeded, and the conditions specified in the Module Internal Assessment Principles determined by the School of Languages must be met. A student who is not successful in the module they started cannot proceed to the next module; they will repeat the same module.

For any student enrolled in the English Preparatory Program, to be eligible to take the English Proficiency Exam (EPE) held during and/or at the end of the academic year, they must have successfully completed every module they attended in the English Preparatory Program and have successfully completed the Pre-Faculty level module.
Exemption Tests and Required Scores for English Preparatory Program

- KPDS/ÜDS/YDS: 90
- TOEFL-IBT: 80
- PTE AKADEMİK: 55
- ITEX: 55
- CATALYST: 55
- CPE: C
- CAE: C
- FCE: B

Program Details

Elementary Level

Students who are determined to have insufficient English proficiency in the level determination exam at the beginning of the year start from this level. In this level, students are aimed to acquire basic English vocabulary and grammar usage skills, improve their comprehension and listening abilities, and gain the structures and basic communication skills needed in everyday language. To pass this level successfully, the student needs to succeed in quizzes and exams, acquire process-oriented and time-constrained writing skills, complete regularly assigned assignments, and prepare a video project.

Pre-Intermediate

In this level, students prepare for the transition to academic English by developing their reading, writing, listening, and speaking skills. Skills such as paragraph writing, presentation skills, and expressing thoughts by participating in discussions are gained at this level. To proceed to the next level, the student must succeed in in-class assessments, vocabulary quizzes, and assignments.

Intermediate

Academic English studies begin at the Intermediate level. Students are aimed to read and comprehend academic texts, write articles, and analyze them. They will also be able to prepare presentations for the purpose of discussions and follow academic lessons, seminars, and conferences by taking notes. Furthermore, students are expected to be able to scan internet sources and academic databases, enabling them to conduct necessary research for their presentations. Student achievements are measured through various assignments such as group discussions, oral presentations, and process-oriented essay writing.

Upper-Intermediate Level

At the Upper-Intermediate level, the emphasis is on developing academic reading, listening, and writing skills through texts relevant to students’ majors. Without following the Main Course book, this level focuses intensively on skills and lessons are based on weekly selected themes. Students are trained in skills such as note-taking, reading and analyzing texts, and writing academic articles. Different texts with various perspectives on the same subject are used to enhance critical thinking, commentary, comparison, and synthesis skills. Student success at this level is measured through portfolios consisting of articles enriched with quotations and references, exam essays written within a set time frame, and evaluations of their participation in in-class discussions. Quiz, assignment, and midterm results, along with teachers’ evaluations, are determinant in these measurements.

Advanced Level (Pre-Faculty)

At this level, transition education between the English Preparatory Program and Faculty Programs is provided. While focusing on language skills and proficiency, the aim is also to prepare these skills and proficiencies according to students’ academic needs. In this level, students also take courses related to their majors such as Principles of Academic Research, Civilization Studies, and Global Affairs. At the Pre-Faculty level, students are introduced to long academic texts and continue to develop analytical thinking and discussion skills alongside reading, listening, and note-taking. Students are also expected to develop academic research skills, such as source selection, evaluation, and usage, required for a significant research assignment.

Attendance and Absenteeism

It is of great importance for students to attend all classes in order to achieve the required proficiency in English language skills. In the English Preparatory Program, there is a mandatory attendance requirement of at least 90% for classes. Students who do not fulfill this requirement cannot proceed to the next module even if they are successful in their classes. Optional English Preparatory Program participants, on the other hand, can start their majors in the next academic year.

Late Entry to Class

Students are allowed to join the first class of the morning if they are 5 minutes late, but they will be marked as late. They must enter subsequent classes on time. If they arrive late, they can enter the class quietly, but they will be marked as absent. Days of being late are included in the total percentage of absenteeism. Being marked as late three times is equivalent to being marked as absent for one hour.
English Language Usage in Class

All classes in the English Preparatory Program are conducted in English. The program follows the curriculum of a university with English as the instructional language, so the language of communication is always English. Using English outside of class will also help students improve their language skills.

Medical Reports

English Preparatory Program students are expected to attend 100% of the classes and participate in exams and assignments. Students who attend less than 90% of the classes for any reason, whether documented or undocumented, including illness, disciplinary penalties, or other mandatory reasons, are considered to have not fulfilled their in-class obligations. In the case of a serious illness, students are granted permission upon presentation of a medical report or hospitalization certificate.

Course Materials and Books

The course materials and books used vary with the modules. Up to the Intermediate level, a Main Course book is used along with a book focusing on speaking and listening skills, along with materials prepared within the Ibn Haldun University School of Languages. From the Upper-Intermediate level onwards, only books and materials focusing on skills are used.

Assessment and Evaluation

The success of students in the English Preparatory Program is measured through various assessment and evaluation methods. Although there may be some differences between modules, generally, process-oriented writing, writing within a given time frame, presentations, quizzes, assignments, a midterm exam, and the Module Exit Test (MET) at the end of each module constitute the assessment and evaluation criteria in the program.

Objecting Exam Results

Appeals against exam results must be made within 3 business days from the announcement of the exam results. Appeals made after this period are considered invalid. Appeals should be submitted to the English Preparatory Program Coordinator in the form of a signed petition. The Measurement and Evaluation Center forms an ‘Appeal Committee’ at the end of the appeal period, consisting of the instructors who taught the class in which the student is enrolled and a member from the Measurement and Evaluation Center. The student’s paper is reevaluated by this committee, and a ‘Petition Result Form’ is signed. A decision on whether any changes will be made to the previously announced exam result is reached within a maximum of 5 business days.

Exam Rules

- Students must be present in the exam room 10 minutes before the exam starts.
- Students must bring necessary tools such as pens and erasers themselves.
- Students arriving late for the first session of the exam will be allowed into the exam room within the first 15 minutes, but no extra time will be given.
- Students arriving late for subsequent sessions will not be allowed into the exam room and cannot take the makeup exam.
- Leaving the exam room within the first 30 minutes of the exam is prohibited.
- Students must turn off their phones and place them on the proctor’s desk before the exam starts.
- Students should ensure that there are no course materials above or below their desks before the exam begins.
- Students attempting to cheat will have their papers marked by the exam proctor, and disciplinary actions will be taken against the student.
- The exam proctor has the authority to change the seating arrangement of students.

Language Clubs

Debate Club: In this club, students participate in English debates as debaters or judges. This provides them with an opportunity to enhance their English listening, speaking, and critical thinking skills. The Debate Club aims to cultivate students who can represent our school in national and international debating competitions.

Drama Club: Under the umbrella of this club, the reading, analysis, and performance of theatrical plays take place. Participating students not only improve their speaking and listening skills but also have the chance to develop their reading skills.

Short Film Club: Open to all students interested in any aspect of creating a short film, from scriptwriting to editing. In this club, students not only enhance their speaking, listening, and writing skills but also have the opportunity to showcase their artistic talents.

Storytelling Club: Students from different countries come together in this club to share and listen to folktales from their cultures. Through this, students not only develop their English listening and speaking skills but also gain knowledge about different cultures.

Literature Club: The Literature Club provides an environment where all English reading, writing, listening, and speaking skills can be developed. Besides activities involving reading and discussing English literary works, the club offers a platform for interested students to engage in English literature studies and share their writings with fellow students.

Tuition fee exemption or reduction rights are 3 semesters for non-thesis master’s programs, 4 semesters for thesis master’s programs, 10 semesters for doctoral programs enrolled with a bachelor’s degree (integrated doctoral), and 8 semesters for doctoral programs enrolled with a master’s degree.

Non-thesis master’s programs consist of courses and a graduation project, thesis master’s programs consist of courses and thesis, and doctoral programs consist of courses, qualification exams, thesis proposal, and thesis monitoring stages. A thesis defense is conducted at the end of the thesis study in thesis master’s and doctoral programs.

Students are required to complete mandatory and elective course categories in their course plans and must complete all courses in the course plans to graduate.
Academic Calendar

Education and instruction at our university are conducted on a semester basis. Each academic year consists of two semesters, each lasting a minimum of fourteen weeks. The end-of-semester exams are not included in these periods. All registration, course, exam, and similar activities within the academic year are organized and regulated by the academic calendar. Therefore, it is important to follow the dates published in the academic calendar on our website. You can access the university’s academic calendar by visiting our university’s webpage.

Academic Counseling

In undergraduate programs, a full-time faculty member is assigned as an advisor for each student by the relevant dean’s office or department chair. The advisor monitors the student throughout their education, provides information and guidance regarding undergraduate education, relevant regulations, and graduation performance. Processes such as course registration, adding or dropping courses, and course withdrawal require advisor approval. When the student submits a written application to the relevant department chair regarding academic matters, the advisor’s opinion is sought. The opinions of both the advisor and the department chair may also be required for student petitions submitted for consideration by faculty authorized committees.

For non-thesis master’s programs, the head of the institute’s main department assigns an instructor or a faculty member with a doctorate degree who meets the qualifications set by the Senate to provide guidance in course selection and execution of the graduation project for each student by the end of the first semester at the latest. Until a project advisor is assigned, the role of advising is carried out by the head of the institute’s main department or the program coordinator/chair.

In graduate programs, academic advising is carried out by the head of the institute’s main department or the program coordinator/chair for students until a thesis advisor is assigned. The role of the academic advisor is to monitor the student’s academic progress and provide guidance on course registration, adding, and dropping. The academic advisor determines the courses the student can take each semester in compliance with the relevant regulations and the curriculum of the relevant master’s program.
For thesis master’s programs, the head of the institute’s main department recommends a thesis advisor from the university’s staff for each student by the end of the first semester at the latest. The thesis advisor is confirmed by the institute’s board of directors.

In doctoral programs, the head of the institute’s main department recommends a thesis advisor from the university’s staff for each student. The thesis advisor is confirmed by the institute’s board of directors.

Leave of Absence / Attendance to Classes

Preparatory program students are required to attend at least 90% of the classes and practices in each module. In cases of exceeding the absenteeism duration, health reports cannot exceed 10% of the total duration in each module. Students who fail to fulfill this obligation are considered unsuccessful. Students in this situation repeat the relevant program. You can find detailed information on the Foreign Languages School’s English Preparatory Program Education - Instruction and Exam Regulations through the IBER system.

In undergraduate programs, students are required to attend courses, practices, and laboratories they are registered for at a rate of at least 80% from the date education-instruction starts, and they are also required to participate in all kinds of measurement and evaluation activities and other work announced by the instructor in the course monitoring form throughout the semester. Health reports of students who cannot attend these activities due to health problems are evaluated by the course instructor. You can find detailed information on the Undergraduate Education-Instruction and Exam Regulations through the IBER system.

In graduate programs, participation in activities such as courses, practices, seminars, mid-term and end-of-term exams is mandatory. Attendance is recorded by the relevant instructor. Students who fail to attend up to 30% of the course and midterm activities without valid reasons are considered unsuccessful with an IA grade. You can find detailed information on the Graduate Education and Instruction Regulations through the IBER system.

Audit Courses

In graduate programs, students may attend courses as listeners. Students must submit their application regarding the subject matter to the relevant department chairmanship in the form of a petition. The application, approved by the department chairmanship, is submitted to the Institute’s Education Committee (ÜYK), and the student’s course registration is carried out based on the EYK decision. The student’s relevant course is graded as “AU,” not included in the grade point average, and not counted towards the credit load.

Course Registration Procedures

Course registration and add-drop processes take place within the dates specified in the academic calendar for each semester. Our students complete their course registration procedures through the Student Information System (OBS). Instructional videos regarding the use of OBS for students and faculty members are available under the “OBS Usage” section in IBER.

Before the course registration process, our students select the courses they wish to take from the course program announced on our University’s Student Affairs website and submit them for approval by their advisors. Once approved by the advisor, the student’s course registration is finalized. It is essential for our students to communicate with their advisors to discuss their course plans, the courses they need to register for, and which courses to select in each semester.

During course selection, students cannot enroll in conflicting courses. After course registration, 1st, 2nd, and 3rd-year students can register for conflicting courses up to one hour, and 4th-year students can register for conflicting courses up to three hours. Students can enroll in conflicting courses through the “Registration Form for Conflicting Courses” available on IBER.

The maximum number of ECTS credits and credits students can take based on their overall GPA are maintained according to the relevant regulations. Students who wish to take additional courses need to apply to the Department/Division Chairmanships with a written petition.

Undergraduate program students, starting from the third semester, with a GPA between 2.00 and 3.00, can take up to an additional maximum of 6 ECTS credits on top of the regular credit load, and those with a GPA exceeding 3.00 can take up to an additional maximum of 12 ECTS credits.

At the end of any semester, undergraduate program students with a GPA below 2.00 are considered probationary students. Probationary students cannot take courses exceeding the normal credit load.

With the approval of their advisors, students can register for courses that overlap with their main programs and Minor/Secondary Field programs using the “Registration Form for Overlapping Courses for Minor/Secondary Field Students” available on IBER.

If students are unable to fulfill the course load requirement for a particular semester in their curriculum either cumulatively or on a semester basis, their financial scholarships will be suspended.

In graduate programs, students must register for thesis and project courses in the relevant semesters.

Double Major, Minor, and Honor Program

Double Major

Upon the recommendation of the relevant departments and faculty/school boards and with the approval of the Senate, a double major program can be established between undergraduate diploma programs conducted at the same higher education institution and other undergraduate programs or between undergraduate and other diploma programs. A separate diploma is awarded to students who have registered for and fulfilled all the requirements of the second major program. Applications for a double major can be made at the beginning of the 3rd, 4th, and 5th semesters of the main diploma program. Students with a GPA of at least 2.72 (out of 4.00) (or at least 70 out of 100) in the relevant class of the main diploma program and ranking in the top 20% can apply for a double major. However, students with a GPA of at least 2.72 (out of 4.00) in the relevant class of the main diploma program but not in the top 20% can apply for a double major if they have achieved the base score of the program in the year the double major program is established, provided that they have successfully completed all their courses up to that semester. The relevant boards may set new criteria, provided that they do not fall below these conditions. A student cannot register for multiple double major programs simultaneously. However, they can register for one double major and one minor program simultaneously.

Applications for double major programs at our university are accepted online in the fall and spring semesters of the respective academic year. Application conditions and quotas are published on the website.

Minor Program (MinP)

Higher education institutions may establish minor programs by determining the principles and application conditions through the proposals of the relevant boards and approval of the senates. Those who complete minor programs are issued a certificate of achievement (minor certificate) only in the field they received education in. These certificates do not substitute for diplomas. Students can apply for a minor program at the beginning of the 3rd, 4th, 5th, and 6th semesters of the main diploma program. Students with a GPA of at least 2.50 (out of 4.00) in the minor program and who have successfully completed all credit-bearing courses until the semester of application can apply. The relevant boards may set new criteria, provided that they do not fall below these conditions. A student can register for a maximum of two minor programs simultaneously.

Applications for minor programs at our university are accepted online in the fall and spring semesters of the respective academic year. Application conditions and quotas are published on the website.

Honor Program

In addition to the curriculum courses of their own program, students who successfully complete 8 elective courses out of the 4 Classical Arabic courses in the Honor Program course pool throughout their undergraduate program are awarded an Honor Program Certificate. The Honor Program is designed as a two-stage program, and students who successfully complete 2 elective courses in addition to the compulsory Classical Arabic courses are eligible to receive a Level 1 Honor Program Certificate.
Applications for the Honor Program at our university are accepted online in the fall and spring semesters of the respective academic year. Application conditions are published on the website.

Scholarships

Undergraduate Scholarships

Our undergraduate students are eligible for scholarships upon entering the university. Scholarships are prepared in accordance with the University’s Undergraduate Scholarship Directive. In addition, depending on their preference rankings, YKS scores, and their rankings nationally, one of the following scholarships or discounts may be granted by the Board of Trustees and announced on the University’s website, subject to the special conditions of the relevant year.

For students who wish to benefit from the university’s dormitory facilities, dormitory fees are collected from them on a monthly basis. Students who wish to register for a dormitory must accept the conditions of the University’s or affiliated institution’s dormitories.

Since our institution works in collaboration with Kuveyt Türk Participation Bank, scholarship payments are made to the respective bank accounts. Therefore, students who register with our University must open a Kuveyt Türk bank account and provide their IBAN information to the Directorate of Student Affairs.

The possibility of full or partial exemption from tuition fees continues for 1+1 years in the Preparatory Program and 4+1 years in the undergraduate program. Cash payments made within the scope of scholarships are unconditional and continue uninterrupted for 9 months a year as long as the student fulfills their program’s course load requirements and does not receive disciplinary penalties, for 1+1 years in the Preparatory Program and 4 years in the undergraduate program. These periods are extended by 1 semester for students attending the Double Major Program and by 1 semester for students attending the Minor Program. Scholarship recipients who fail to meet the minimum requirements of the program (GPA) or receive disciplinary penalties have their scholarships terminated.

Cash scholarships are deposited into student accounts on the 15th of each month or the first working day thereafter. Scholarships are cut under the following circumstances:

- When the student fails to fulfill the ECTS amount of the courses in their curriculum for the semester they are enrolled in or cumulatively fails to fulfill the required ECTS amounts,
- When they are absent from any course during the semester,
- When they receive any form of disciplinary penalty.

Students whose scholarships are terminated due to insufficient ECTS credits are required to repay the scholarships received for the respective past months.

Cash scholarship payments for students who will go abroad for study/internship purposes under the Erasmus exchange program, as notified by the FYC decision, continue for the relevant semester.

Increases in scholarships are determined by the Board of Trustees. Students are entitled to a certain percentage of the Board of Trustees Scholarship in their cash scholarships. In order for students to receive the Board of Trustees scholarships, they must not have any KYK debts.

Our students can apply for Support Scholarships that will be valid for 9 months, covering rights such as meal scholarships, through their faculties and departments. Requests evaluated by the Scholarship Commission are approved or denied by the University Administrative Committee.

Graduate Scholarships

Graduate students who meet the conditions in the Scholarship Directive are granted a reduction in tuition fees, complete exemption from tuition fees, or a cash scholarship status based on the recommendation of the Department Chairmanships at the admission stage to the program they are registered in, and approval by the Institute to which they are affiliated.

All scholarship statuses are valid for the normal study period of the programs, which is 3 semesters for non-thesis master’s programs, 4 semesters for thesis master’s programs, 8 semesters for doctoral programs registered with a master’s degree, and 10 semesters for doctoral programs registered with a bachelor’s degree (integrated doctoral programs).

For the duration of the normal study period and for nine months in an academic year, cash scholarships, which are paid on the 15th of each month or the first working day thereafter, require students in this scholarship status to perform either teaching or research assistantship duties.

Cash scholarship payments are not made to students who waive or do not perform these activities.

Students who serve as teaching assistants (Teaching Fellowship: TF) in university shared courses under the University Courses Coordination Office (UDK) conduct two hours of teaching, two hours of discussion, and one hour of lesson preparation work per week as part of these activities. Cash scholarship payments for married scholarship recipients are made throughout the year for 12 months. The continuation of all scholarship statuses is subject to the achievement requirements specified in the Graduate Scholarship Directive, and upgrading or downgrading of scholarship statuses may be made in accordance with the provisions of the relevant directive.

For students who wish to benefit from the university’s dormitory facilities, dormitory fees are collected on a monthly basis. Students who wish to register for a dormitory must accept the conditions of the University’s or affiliated institution’s dormitories.

Email and Cloud Services

All registered students are provided with a university email account. In addition to accessing their emails using their account credentials, students can also access the wireless network and all other systems (such as the student information system, library databases, etc.) using the same username and password. (The username and password for the email account are the same as the usernames and passwords for all other systems.)

Email accounts are defined in the format name.surname@stu.ihu.edu.tr. The username is the portion before the “@” sign in the email address, which is the “name.surname” format. By default, a password is not assigned to the account. Initially, to access the email, a password must be created using the verification code received on the mobile phone via pass.ihu.edu.tr.

These rooms are typically a dedicated space where student clubs can hold meetings, organize events, and conduct activities. These rooms also serve as a center where members can hold meetings, work on projects, store materials, and plan activities.

Student Representatives Council

The Student Representatives Council serves as a communication bridge between our students and the university’s administrative bodies in meeting and enhancing students’ educational, health, sports, and cultural needs.

The Student Representatives Council is responsible for representing their departments/institutes in national and international arenas, determining student opinions to find solutions to student problems related to education, health, sports, and culture, and establishing communication with administrative and academic staff. The council is committed to protecting student rights and is not affiliated with any political movement.

Campus Vehicle Usage

Electric Scooters

Electric scooters provide students with a fast and convenient way to reach classes, dining areas, the library, and other activity venues within the campus. The usage of electric scooters on campus is typically facilitated through mobile applications. Students can locate nearby electric scooters using an application downloaded to their smartphones. Through the application, they can rent the scooter and use it for the desired duration.

Bicycles

Bicycles available for student use on campus enable them to move more quickly and efficiently within the campus. With dedicated bike lanes and parking areas between dormitories and faculties, bicycles contribute to making campus life easier. Regulations regarding bicycle usage are managed through the Directorate of Art, Culture, and Sports (SKS).

Registration Freeze

Procedures related to registration freezes are applied in accordance with Article 34 of the Undergraduate Regulations and the stages specified in Article 22 of the Postgraduate Regulations.

Students wishing to freeze their registration must complete the ‘Permission Request Form’ available on the IBER system. Undergraduate students should apply to their Department Chair, while postgraduate students should apply to the Head of the Main Science Branch. Courses for which students are granted leave during the semester are indicated as ‘LA’ on the grade transcript. Leave requests must be submitted by the end of the fourth week following the start of classes. Leave applications made after this period, except for exceptional circumstances, will not be accepted. During their leave, students cannot participate in educational and academic activities or exams and cannot benefit from scholarships provided by the University. According to the regulations, a fee equal to 5% of the annual program fee is charged for each semester in which a student is granted leave. No fee is charged if there are specific reasons for the leave.

Online Education

Education and training at our university are primarily conducted through in-person classes. Within the scope of the relevant regulations of the Council of Higher Education (YÖK), a certain number of courses can be offered online each semester. The delivery methods of the courses are announced in the course schedule on our website each semester.

Withdrawal

Various processes for student withdrawals are carried out at our university due to various reasons. Students who wish to withdraw voluntarily should complete the ‘Withdrawal Form’ personally or have it completed by a second party with a power of attorney, and submit it to the department/main science branch secretariat. Based on the decision of the relevant faculty/institute’s executive board, the student’s affiliation with the university is terminated. The withdrawal process for students who exceed the maximum study period, fail in the preparatory class, are conditionally accepted into a postgraduate program, or fail to complete registration documents is carried out through a decision of the faculty/institute administration without waiting for the completion of the withdrawal process. Students whose affiliation is terminated and who have items to be returned to the university must return the relevant items to the university. Otherwise, legal actions are initiated.

Students who wish to withdraw should complete the ‘Withdrawal Form’ available on the IBER system. Information regarding tuition fees related to withdrawal and enrollment is processed according to the provisions of the regulations. Courses selected by students who withdraw are indicated with a ‘CW’ grade.
Withdrawal from Courses

Students who wish to drop a course after the course add-drop period can withdraw from the course through the course withdrawal process. While undergraduate students can withdraw from courses starting from the third semester, there is no such limit for graduate students. Students are allowed to withdraw from a maximum of 6 courses for undergraduate students and 3 courses for graduate students, with the approval of their advisors, until the “Last Day for Course Withdrawal Applications” date specified in the academic calendar. The withdrawn course does not affect the GPA; however, it is indicated on the transcript with a ‘W’ grade.

You can access the Ibn Haldun University Undergraduate Education and Examination Regulations and Graduate Education and Examination Regulations on the IBER system, review the criteria for course withdrawal, and access the course withdrawal form.

The survey results are reported and submitted to the Summer School Coordination Office for evaluation. Students can retake courses they have failed in the Summer School. If these courses are not offered in the Summer School, they can take courses from other universities’ summer schools according to the principles determined by the relevant faculty/institute management board. Undergraduate and Graduate Transfer

Our university offers various types of undergraduate transfers. There are three different types: intra-institutional transfer, inter-institutional transfer, and undergraduate transfer based on the central placement score.

Intra-Institutional Transfer

A lateral transfer can be made to equivalent level diploma programs within a faculty’s own structure or within another faculty within the same university, within the quota determined by the relevant board of directors.

To apply for a lateral transfer between diploma programs, the student must have a minimum overall GPA of 3.00 out of 4.00 for the periods completed in their enrolled program, and have earned 48 ECTS credits for the third semester, 72 ECTS credits for the fourth semester, and 96 ECTS credits for the fifth semester. The relevant boards of directors may establish new criteria, provided they do not fall below these requirements. Transfers can only be made in the 3rd, 4th, and 5th semesters. To apply for a lateral transfer between the university’s diploma programs, the student’s central placement score received for the year they took the central exam must not be below the minimum base score of equivalent diploma programs of other domestic higher education institutions for the desired diploma program.

Inter-Institutional Transfer

Inter-institutional transfers are made between equivalent level diploma programs of higher education institutions and within the framework of quotas published by the Higher Education Council. For inter-institutional transfers, the student must have a minimum GPA of 76.66 out of 100 (equivalent to at least 3.00 out of 4.00) for the periods completed in their enrolled program. Inter-institutional transfers are made within the framework of equivalent diploma programs at the same level and are only possible for the 2nd and 3rd years. The acceptance status of the student’s tuition fees and scholarships is determined by the relevant board of directors and approved by the Rectorate.

Undergraduate Transfer Based on Central Placement Score

If the student’s central placement score in the year of enrollment is equal to or higher than the base score of the desired diploma program, including the preparatory class, the student can apply for a lateral transfer. The application schedule for lateral transfers, principles regarding student quotas, and rules and principles regarding lateral transfers are determined by the Higher Education Executive Committee. In accordance with the established rules and principles, students’ applications for lateral transfers are evaluated by the relevant boards of higher education institutions, and lateral transfers are accepted by ranking the applicants starting with the highest candidate based on the ÖSYS score, up to the quota limit. If the number of applications exceeds the quota, the student’s central placement score in the year of registration must not fall below the base score of the desired diploma program. If the student’s central placement score in the year of registration is not lower than the base score of the desired diploma program, including the preparatory class, the student can apply for a lateral transfer to all classes, including the preparatory class. The maximum period for a student who switches to a different program through an undergraduate transfer is calculated by subtracting the accepted class from the maximum period of the program. The acceptance status of the student’s tuition fees and scholarships is determined by the relevant board of directors and approved by the Rectorate.

Graduate transfer conditions and applications for graduate programs are determined by the institutes.

Application requirements are announced by the institutes during the relevant periods.

Transfer to Turkish-Language Undergraduate Programs

The maximum duration of the mandatory preparatory program, which is partially or entirely conducted in a foreign language, is two years. Students who are unsuccessful at the end of the maximum period will have their relationship with the program terminated. If requested, students whose relationship has been terminated may be placed into a Turkish-language program, for a one-time opportunity, provided that their University Entrance Exam score for the year of enrollment is not lower than the base score required for enrollment in the program they will be placed in.

Applying students can review the application dates and application guide published on ÖSYM's website. During the relevant dates, they can fill out the application form, obtain a signature from the Student Affairs Directorate, and then apply to ÖSYM. For detailed information on this matter, you can review our university’s undergraduate and graduate regulations and the criteria set by ÖSYM.
